FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

ergoCentric opens new showroom&store inside Toronto's historic King Edward Hotel

Toronto, Ontario—April 4, 2019—ergoCentric Seating Systems, a company whose sole mission since it began in 1990 has been to design and manufacture the world's best office chair, has opened its new showroom&store inside downtown Toronto's historic Omni King Edward Hotel.

The new ergoCentric showroom&store will serve as the company's leading retail location, as well as its primary showroom. From ergoCentric's sought after tCentric Hybrid high-performance task chair to height adjustable tables, and ergonomic office accessories, visitors are able to talk to ergonomic experts about how to best outfit their office, and can be fitted for an ergoCentric task chair suited to their specific needs.

"We receive a lot of requests from individuals asking if they can buy the ergoCentric task chair they sit on at work for their home," said Terry Cassaday, Founder of ergoCentric. "We wanted to ensure our task chairs are available to the general public, which is why we opened our new showroom&store. It gives individuals and corporations a chance to easily browse and shop our complete line of ergonomic office furniture and accessories."

Inside the historic King Edward hotel, located in the heart of downtown Toronto at 37 King Street East, the new 4,000 square foot ergoCentric showroom&store is staffed with ergoCentric sales experts. Every item on display can be purchased and taken away immediately, or can be ordered to suit any number of body types, tasks, or environments. With a modular approach to manufacturing, ergoCentric configures thousands of different ergonomic chairs for its customers, ensuring a perfect fit for virtually 100% of the population. ergoCentric seating is used by Apple, Nasa, Nike and thousands of other organizations.

The company's new flagship store is open Monday-Friday 10:00am-6:00pm, Saturdays from 10:00am-5:00pm, and Sundays from 11:00am-4:00pm.
